

Nicolas Kalfa is the Head of the National Reference Center for the Genital Development in France and the President of the French Society of Pediatric Urology. His clinical works focus on the surgical management of hypospadias. His research explores the genetic and environmental causes of genital defects thanks to a multidisciplinary approach and team.